
Thin lines: training seeds; thick lines: available-seed mean. Diagnostics do not consume training randomness. Missing source measurements are absent, not zero. Probe coverage is limited; diverse actions need not be useful actions.